Hi Lucas Snow,

Our team has worked to make some changes that suit better to your new needs. In regard to the previous prototype we sent earlier, and for a more comfortable experience for our future clients. We added some new sections including "website homepage" which is determined as the general page, "header" where we would find the name of the web page, "links" where we would find three different links that in this case would be: destination, about and contact, " main" where the links are located and "page content" is what we define as the content that is shown depending on the selected link.

Since the last email we have made certain changes that facilitate the use of the website. Among the changes we find a search bar to find the different elements that we have on our website, to this we have also added a change of font in the texts to make the website easier to read and make it more accessible. The images that previously were in a standard size, we have enlarged them to make it easier to read and along with this change we have also added a larger font size than the previous one, to make it easier to read for people with vision difficulties and make it more inclusive. Finally we have added a slideshow showcasing popular tourist spots along with stories from different clients who share their experience on their trips to the tourist spots.

These have been the last changes made to the website, if there is any type of suggestion or improvement that you think is necessary our team will be open to make that changes.

Best regards,

Web Development Team
Winter Wonderscapes